

The area he's referring to for the adjustment is in the yellow circle. The closer you bring the vertical bracket toward the front of the engine, the higher your gas pedal will sit and the more travel it will have.

Be sure the throttle is fully closed before you make any adjustments. And don't bring the vertical bracket too far forward or it will strike the back of the engine block.