

Ford needs your help! The company is preparing to unveil a Performance Package for the 2012 Mustang V6, but it doesn't have a name for it. So, how can you help? Well, head on over to Ford's Facebook page and suggest a name for this future package. Five of the most voted names will enter the "final" and the winner will be the lucky one to name the future vehicle.

"We're utilizing the power of social media to not only talk about what a fantastic package this is, but to also let Mustang fans across the country share a piece of it," said Brian McClary, Ford social and emerging media specialist. "It's a nontraditional approach to naming a piece of brand that millions of people identify with."

If you need a little help coming up with the name then just look at some of the features associated with it. The Performance Package includes a 3.31 rear axle ratio for quicker off-the-line acceleration, Mustang GT coupe front and rear stabilizer bars, Mustang GT front struts and rear shocks/springs, and a Shelby GT500 rear lower control arm. It will also come with Mustang GT front and rear brake calipers with Performance Friction pads, a strut tower brace for increased body rigidity, a unique electronic stability control calibration with sport mode for performance driving, and unique badging. Topping it off will be 19-inch wheels wrapped in Pirelli
